Geographical names policy

Geographical names are for the most part found in a French style and should be taken as found on official sources where possible. All diacritical marks (see below for details), apostrophes and hyphens should be retained.

Language/s

Haitian Creole is the principal language spoken by Haitians; about 10% of the population are also conversant in French.

After the country's independence from France in 1804, French continued to be Haiti's literary language and remained the only language acknowledged in the Constitution until 1961, when a new Constitution permitted the use of Creole "for the safeguard of the material and moral interests of those citizens who do not have sufficient knowledge of the French language"<sup>1</sup>. Creole was not explicitly declared official alongside French until the 1987 Constitution<sup>2</sup>.

Much work has been carried out in an attempt to standardise the orthography of Haitian Creole. A system developed by the Institut Pédagogique National, òtograf (IPN), was selected as the official orthography by the Haitian government in 1980<sup>3</sup> and has become the most widely used orthography.

With its roots in 18th century French, Haitian Creole draws also on several West African languages (such as Wolof and Fon) as well as Spanish and some English. There are two recognised dialects: Fabras and Plateau.
